OUR JOURNEY

"We have always been an ambitious organisation"

While we have always been an ambitious organisation, our latest financial statements have gone beyond even our own expectations, proving that our business continues to surpass its claims to delivering a superior quality of service that delights our clients.

Everyone at Barnett Waddingham views these results, and their role in achieving them, with an immense sense of pride. Results like this don't happen by chance. There is no doubt that every person plays an essential part in our business and without them, we would not be achieving such exceptional levels of growth.

As Barnett Waddingham celebrated its 30 year anniversary this summer, it afforded me the opportunity to reflect on the thoughts and intentions at the birth of the organisation. The aim then was to fashion a service that had clear values and was uncompromising in its commitment to putting clients and people above profit. That aim is the same today. It will be the same in 30 years from now.

So much has been accomplished within that time that it is clearly impossible to list each of the small – sometimes daily - achievements that brought us here. But the approach we have taken with our clients since 1989 is, in essence, the same approach we take for our business as a whole: long-term partnership that requires long-term thinking. Our business map is measured not in years, but in decades, and our latest financial results prove we are setting the ideal foundations for the future.

I firmly believe that our success is driven by our true independence as a firm, which is something our competitors simply cannot offer. That impartiality is vital to giving clients the flexibility and control they expect in a service

Remaining a 'people-first' provider is not just key to our values but makes an indelible impact on our bottom line.

Clients want a partner they can trust to do the right thing, whether it's in day-to-day business or in our involvement with local communities - and they are pleased to see us instilling the same values across our workforce.

As such, I'm pleased that we refer in this report to some of the ongoing work we do in helping charities, community projects and individual causes. I have had the privilege of being personally involved in several of these initiatives, seeing their benefit first-hand. The report also highlights the consistently high scores we receive from independent bodies and from clients themselves as we continuously look for feedback and opportunities to improve our client service.

Climbing this mountain has been possible through many, many small steps. Our financial results prove that we have, particularly in the past year, covered huge ground, have planted many flags and have done it as a supportive, integrated team. But, unlike actual mountain climbers, we hope never to reach the summit – instead relishing the discovery of new heights and the opportunity to pass new milestones.

I am confident that Barnett Waddingham's journey will continue to take us onward and upward!

EMBRACING CHANGE

"The numbers never tell the full story. But those found in this year's report exemplify our tireless dedication to making a meaningful difference to our clients."

Marcus MARCUS WHITEHEAD

Those that we partner with tell us that they are consistently impressed by our commitment to timely delivery and fair and transparent pricing, helping us to ensure long-term relationships that are built on a bedrock of trust.

Aside to our financial success, this brings into sharp focus, our outstanding operational achievements. We continue to invest heavily in training and in recruiting talented people into our business – underscored by our rapidly growing annual intake of graduates and apprentices – as we consider the needs of the business for tomorrow.

While it's of course a fantastic achievement for any business to pass its 30 year milestone, we are less concerned about basking in our results than with maintaining our momentum to propel us forward into the next 30 years.

Our heritage underpins our triumphs, but our focus is on the future to ensure that we continue to listen, to innovate and to help our clients solve their complexities to the best of our ability.

This year saw the launch of our 'Free Thinking' campaign. It reflects not just how we enable our customers to overcome traditional limitations, but how we empower our own people within the business with a sense of independence, encouraging them to push boundaries, think outside-the-box and challenge conventions at times when better alternatives can often be applied.

Putting this into practice has recently seen us involved in the successful actuarial and administrative work behind Rothesay Life's £3.8bn buy-in with Allied Domecq – the biggest buy-in completed in the UK to have secured benefits for pensioners and deferred members – and Legal & General's £930m buy-in with Tate & Lyle.

Our approach also allows us to balance our commitments to our longstanding clients such as Pernod Ricard, Ageas and Remploy, to name a few - to bringing our more specialist services to new clients, such as those now a part of our longevity consulting portfolio.

At its core, growth is a state of change and we embrace this way of thinking. We will therefore continue to embrace change and we expect it to continue over the next twelve months and beyond. In fact, our strategy involves constant transformation, with the aim to leave the business in a better position at the end of each day than it was at the start.

But we also apply that same ethos to ourselves, as individuals. I have no doubt that developing the expertise and potential of each person at Barnett Waddingham will continue to benefit our clients - and to see our business change for the better.

After all, it's got us this far.

BEYOND THE EXPECTED

"This 2018/19 period has seen us achieve double-digit annual revenue growth of £15 million, representing a stand-out performance in the risk, pensions, insurance and investment markets."

Jane JANE GALVIN COO and Partner While our organisation has grown consistently year-on-year, 2018/19 saw a significant acceleration of revenues to £99.3 million alongside the expansion of headcount, services and solutions.

Barnett Waddingham's strapline is, of course, 'beyond the expected'. However, with an increase in revenue of almost 50% since 2016, the results have in many ways exceeded our own lofty ambitions.

Through both retention and new business, our performance emphasises the fact that our clients are regularly receiving a superior quality of service driven by our competitive position as an impartial and independent organisation.

Among our major achievements in the past year, consistent quality scoring for service delivery has been a mainstay, including a coveted 'gold award' in July from Investor in Customers (IIC) for outstanding customer experience and loyalty across all of our trustee services, and a PASA 'gold standard' for the quality of our pensions administration team.

"It has been a real honour for me to take up the responsibility as non-executive Chair of the Management Board of Barnett Waddingham during such a significant time for the business.

This annual report illustrates that there has been much to celebrate this year. Our focus is now to the future as we seek to sustain and build on our momentum as a market leading, independent and free thinking firm providing a tailored bespoke service for our clients. We are well placed to support our clients for the long-term.

I am confident that the coming year will see the firm develop and grow and, together with Management Board and everyone at Barnett Waddingham, I look forward to helping to drive further success."

Elizabeth ELIZABETH RENSHAW-AMES

GOOD PEOPLE, GOOD PRACTICE

Our workforce now exceeds 1,270 people across eight offices, of whom 73 are partners.

We welcomed over 350 new starters throughout the financial year, providing valuable consulting, administration, IT and operational resource to the organisation's risk, pensions, investment and insurance practices.

Owing to this growth, we have since been able to welcome a larger intake of 27 to our annual graduate programme and 25 to our apprentice programme, with training and mentorship provided by some of our most experienced partners. We will build on this in the coming year by updating our entry requirements, with the aim of widening our talent pool to provide further consultancy services beyond our actuarial practice.

This includes a continued emphasis on diversity and inclusion, as we believe a wider variety of people and experiences brings diversity of thought, fundamental to our future prospects for innovation Aside to this, our financial and headcount growth have been underpinned by efforts to further corporate social investment sustainability and people-focussed activities.

We recognise our role in the wider community and have been pleased to support many charitable causes that cover research for cancer, physical syndromes and disabilities, and those suffering with terminal illness and bereavement, to name a few. Acknowledging our 30 years as a business, we have marked the occasion with a project committing to benefitting 1,000 young people through financial donations, educational sessions, mental health initiatives and youth enterprise schemes. Other initiatives have included communal garden renovation and planting projects, allowing us to collaborate with other organisations in our local areas to create meaningful change.

Our sustainable practices have seen a reduction in printed material, single-use plastic and waste across all our offices, as well as initiatives to optimise our use of sola power, recyclables and Fairtrade products.

Staff have access to technology that enables them to cut travel by working remotely, and many are further reducing their carbon footprint by taking advantage of our cycle to work scheme. Our office operations and facilities are currently managed to BREEAM (the world's leading sustainability assessment method) good or excellent standards, where energy efficiency assessments are available.

By engaging with clients about Environmenta Social and Governance (ESG) investment factors, putting long-term sustainability front of mind, we believe they will be better equipped to identify investments with the potential to generate higher returns and mitigate risk over the long term

Being a 'people-first' provider is not just key to our values but confirms our commitment to doing the right thing. While this is beneficial to the trust and confidence our clients place in us as their partner, it is also beneficial to the local communities with which we work.

"We enjoy working with Barnett Waddingham because we find them pragmatic and responsive. Their communication with us is open and transparent, and they really help our lay trustees to understand complex pensions issues."

Meanwhile, our workplace, health and wealth (WHW) services continue to work closely with our corporate consultancy practice to deliver a truly bespoke service for a dynamic and evolving workplace.

Developing our services and being unafraid to step into new fields of consultancy remains at the heart of our efforts to evolve with the needs of our clients, who are always looking for fresh, innovative expertise.

That breadth of technical expertise and communication skill has made us ideally placed to provide other specialist advice. For example, a number of our experts have given evidence in court and many more have prepared expert witness reports for legal proceedings.

SUPPORTING BARNETT WADDINGHAM CLIENTS WITH OPERATIONS BEYOND THE UK.

In the past year, we continued to expand our reach in the global market. MBW International, our joint venture with US-based management consulting company Milliman, progressed in its aim of becoming the leading independent alternative for global pensions and employee benefits advice worldwide.

Representing over 3,000 people with offices in over 20 offices, the joint venture bolstered existing services available for our clients that operate outside the UK as well as creating new international prospects.

Following the end of the financial year, the venture has taken on a new partner in Germany-based Lurse AG, becoming MBWL International and further strengthening its global presence.

None of this is possible without us also developing our capacity to deliver. Within our own walls, we have embraced Smart Working to help provide employees with flexibility and a better work/life balance, as well as building an accessible environment for those returning to work. Our internal investments into better and faster IT solutions reflects the needs of our workforce, enabling them to be responsive and engaged at all times.

Alongside this, we place continuous emphasis on our data governance and management, applying the highest quality standards and expertise to ensure our clients will always be able to access and share information in a safe and secure environment. Aside to successfully maintaining our ISO certification, we have incorporated new user authentication controls into our web-based services, implemented a security incident and event management system (SIEM), established a security operations centre (SOC) to manage alerts, and implemented information security software to optimise control of our data

These measures are crucial to upholding the full trust of our clients.

When it comes to strategic thinking, we are already setting bold ambitions for the future, with the aim to maintain and evolve our role as a leading influencer in the market by focussing on enduring relationships.

Our latest financial results prove that we are setting the ideal foundations for the decades ahead.
